Consumer Reports calls AT&T 'worst carrier'

San Francisco Business Times

Date: Monday, December 6, 2010, 1:26pm PST - Last Modified: Monday, December 6, 2010, 1:47pm PST

Consumer Reports said Monday that AT&T has slipped to dead last among U.S. wireless carriers.

The rating comes as no surprise to readers of the San Francisco Business Times, who since the fall have been logging wireless dead zones around the Bay Area. Of the 1,400-plus Bay Area wireless dead zones logged by readers so far, 81 percent named AT&T as the carrier.

For its study, Consumer Reports surveyed 58,000 readers, over half of whom owned some version of Apple Inc.'s (NASDAQ: AAPL) ubiquitous iPhone. It said of all the carriers it rates, only AT&T (NYSE: T) dropped
